FINAL REVIEW
Senior Center Additions

Present: Timothy Wagner and Don Rerko, of MPA, General Contractors

- Rear material is EIFS to match existing siding and it was discussed and applicant agreed that they can look into providing a more thoughtfully placed pattern of control joints in application of the EIFS for symmetry and rhythm
- Prairie style architecture was introduced by the applicant as well as pictures of homes with this design
- Ms. Szyte does not mind the entry and tall geometry in front because she feels it provides a visible anchor and the existing entrance works well programmatically; she suggested use of a more durable material at grade rather than bring EIFS all the way down
- Stone on the right front façade was discussed and alternatives to lighten the mass of stone such as installing siding above the windows.
- Project budget may be too limited to accomplish many of the suggestions from the Board for this project; applicants will further review some of the suggestions with their clients.

Mr. Jennings moved to grant final approval of the project and encouraged applicant to consider having variation in the material to break up the massiveness of the stone façade and providing more control joints in the EIFS panels. Mr. Evans seconded.
