CITY OF ROCKY RIVER ZONING UPDATES SCOPE OF SERVICES

The planning process for the City of Rocky River Zoning Updates consists of two phases outlined below.

Phase 1: Zoning Map Updates

The first phase involves updates to the existing Zoning Map to ensure it is in line with past rezonings and reflects the current legal zoning of parcels in Rocky River.

Task 1.1: Identify Needed Zoning Map Updates

County Planning staff will partner with the City to identify past rezoning actions taken by the City to compile a list of needed changes to the Zoning Map.

Task 1.2: Prepare Updated Zoning Map

County Planning will prepare a Geographic Information System (GIS) map that will include updated zoning data of all City parcels. It will be exported in various formats including PDF files, GIS files, and Adobe Illustrator files for transmittal to the City.

Task 1.3: Prepare Online Zoning Map

County Planning will also construct an online map for use by the City and available to post on the City's website for residents and other users. The map will include up-to-date zoning and links to the Zoning Code.

Phase 2: Zoning Code Review

The second phase involves a review of the existing code to determine issues that need to be addressed as well as outlining a framework for any major changes to the code's layout, order, or districts.

Task 2.1: Prepare Zoning Code Review and Diagnosis

County Planning will meet with various users of the City's Zoning Code including the Planning Commission, Board of Zoning Appeals, and Architectural Review Board to review existing code language and identify areas of concern. County Planning will also review the Zoning Code against national best practices to determine issues to be resolved with the City's Zoning Districts and associated regulations.

Task 2.2: Prepare Framework of Changes

Based on conversations and the code review, County Planning will identify a framework of code and map changes including definition updates, new districts, and modernization of permitted uses. These potential changes will be shared with City staff and members of the Boards and Commissions to compare to the issues identified previously.
